

Skate Whole Dojo offers individualized and group therapeutic skateboarding lesson for students with disabilities.

Skate Dojo is affiliated with :

Skate Whole Dojo is a skate boarding school that focuses on developing a life long love of skateboarding, health and learning. Phil Hulbig is doctoral fellow at Lesley University a certified teacher, tutor and advocate who has specifically designed a skate program that incorporates meta-cognitive self understanding to teach Skateboarding and an understanding of the learning process.

Therapeutic Skateboarding

All skill and abilities are supported. Space is limited. All potential students are evaluated in a personalized one to one setting that they feel most comfortable in determine their skating level and any specialized needs resulting from their disabilities that need to be addressed. Then an individualized skate plan will be developed to promote the students individual needs and learning.

For more information contact Phil Hulbig:
508-838-0591

Helmets and a waiver are required to participate. Skateboarding can result in injury. While Phil Hulbig and Skate Dojo will work hard to teach the basic safety necessary for skating they cannot be held liable for injury.

